Findings:

General: Based on Interview, a caregiver hired on 8/18/15, held a four (4) month old infant in her left arm and a thirteen (13) month old toddler in her right arm while sitting in a rocking chair on 10/4/16. The caregiver stood up with both children in her arms, turned to the left, and the caregiver's right foot stepped on her left pant leg. At the same time, the thirteen (13) month old's foot was caught in the four (4) month old's blanket so the caregiver shook the thirteen (13) month old's right thigh to loosen her foot from the blanket. The thirteen (13) month old began to kick which caused the four (4) month old to slide down the caregiver's left side, the caregiver moved the four (4) month old back up her hip, but the four (4) month old flipped over the caregiver's left arm, fell to the floor, and landed on the left side of her face. The four month old child received medical treatment which determined there were no injuries. The child returned to the child-care center on the following day, 10/5/16.
